

A scatter plot showing the relationship between the Release Date (X-axis, ranging from 2023.0 to 2027.0) and the Performance Score (Y-axis, ranging from 0.0 to 1.0). The plot displays numerous AI models, each represented by a colored dot (red or blue) and labeled with its name. The models are distributed across the plot, with some showing high performance scores and others showing lower scores. The plot includes a grid and a legend indicating that red dots represent models with a performance score of 0.8 or higher, and blue dots represent models with a performance score of 0.7 or lower.

The scatter plot displays the relationship between the release date and the pretraining corpus size for various time series datasets. The y-axis represents the corpus size on a logarithmic scale, ranging from 10^5 to 10^{12} data points. The x-axis represents the release date, ranging from 2023.5 to 2027.0. Most datasets are represented by blue circles, while two datasets, 'TimeToolBench (TimeART)' and 'StreamTSI-34K (TimeInteract)', are highlighted with red circles. The plot shows a general trend of increasing corpus size over time, with some datasets like 'Toto Telemetry (Toto 1.0)' and 'Datadog Telemetry (Toto 2.0)' reaching over 10^{12} data points by late 2025. Other datasets like 'TimeToolBench (TimeART)' and 'StreamTSI-34K (TimeInteract)' are shown in red, indicating they are newer or less established.
